

Trust the government, get your vaccines. The government loves you. The government wants what's best for you. Take the free vaccines.

Worked in a hospital setting for 8 years, learned a lot about vaccines. Flu vaccines were mandatory for all staff, but luckily some religious exceptions were available, which I always did. But we had to wear a mask while at work. And everyone knows that someone with a mask looks like they are sick with something, I believe the pharma companies know this and use it as a passive coercion tactic to get people to fall in line.

Just my opinion on that though. I didn't give a shit, I don't want that crap in my body. Every year I would ask what the brand and everything was about the shot and I looked up the ingredients in it. It was the usual, thimersol (mercury derivative and other crap) and pregnant women in the hospital were getting them. It even said on the website that the shot was not tested on pregnant women. Yikes.

Guess what happens if you sustain an injury via vaccine? You can't sue the pharma companies, oh no, they have legal exemption since the 1980s. You have to go through a claims court and many times people die from their injuries before they are able to be compensated, which takes on average of about 10 years. Assuming you have the time and the physical ability or someone to help you to go through the process.

Had a co-worker once who opted out of the flu shot, so I asked him about it and he said he got it one year and he got this weird thing or twitch with his neck that never got better. So he had a permanent injury due to the flu vaccine.

In another hospital I had a patient who was a young woman got the Gardasil vaccine and she suffered through a bout of Guillain-Barre syndrome, which thankfully is temporary, but this syndrome basically causes full-body paralysis. It's one thing to read about these cases but I actually met real people who experienced it. Which put me off of vaccines for good. I am vegan and try to stay healthy and through this lifestyle I haven't been sick in years.

Take care of yourselves and avoid any kind of vaccines if you can. If you do choose to get a vaccine, DO YOUR RESEARCH and realize what you have to go through if you or someone you love suffers a vaccine injury.

People need to understand that the companies making these vaccines are evil and are not interested in actually helping ANYONE. People who are anti-vax and pro-vax want the same thing, we all want to be healthy and not see one another with diseases, but unfortunately most of the diseases that manifest are artificially created by the Cabal in order to depopulate the planet. They create the problem (disease) and the solution (vaccine) in order to control people and their health. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure all of this out. Follow the money.

World Health Organization is at the top of the pyramid for vaccine recommendations. Who is on the board of this organization? Pharma company CEOs, and so on.

WHO (world health organization) gives recommendations to CDC (center for disease control) who gives recommendations to general population including hospitals (CDC is where we got our vaccine recommendations from).

Funny story here too, one year the CDC announced that the flu shot was only like 10-20% effective. Did anyone else in the hospital have to wear a mask? Nope, just me.
